The Canadian Business History Association - l'association canadienne pour l'histoire des affaires (CBHA/ACHA) is dedicated to the pursuit of Canadian business history and its role both domestically and in world business history. The organization's specific aims include encouraging more studies of enterprise by Canadians and in Canada, helping build and maintain well-structured and open business archives, providing those who study business history a forum for discussing their research with those who practice business, encouraging research projects on relevant subjects and providing funding for such research, and in general encouraging the study of business history in Canada.

The CBHA/ACHA offers scholarships, grants and research awards to its members. It also offers the bi-annual Best Book in Canadian Business History Award, with a $10,000 prize, and the Best Article in Canada Business History Prize.

Membership in the CBHA/ACHA is open to individuals, firms, and groups. You can read more about this non-profit at its website www.cbha-acha.ca.

Recently, the CBHA/ACHA opened a Giving Account with the Veritas Charitable Foundation to administer and present its scholarships and awards.

The VF Giving Fund allows individuals, groups and companies to set up their own charitable giving entity in minutes to start their Legacy of Giving.

Contact me directly if you would like to do the same.
